

Claims:

1. A system for performing sales transactions online comprising;
a database;
said database containing of a profile of various sales agents;
said database containing of information about each user;
said database being capable of communicating with said user either orally or in writing.
2. The system of claim 1 wherein said sales agent comprises a three dimensional representation of a sales agent.
3. The system of claim 1 wherein said information comprises information about a user's personal life, and information about a user's business activities.
4. The system of claim 1 wherein said database records each sales transaction completed.
5. The system of claim 1 wherein said profile comprises physical characteristics of said sales agent and/or educational history, and/or business style.
6. The system of claim 1 wherein said communication can be via e-mail, a web site, palm pilot, cell phone, or other wireless means.
7. A method for performing sales transactions online comprising;
logging into a database;
entering a password or other information that can be identified by said database;
choosing a virtual sales agent from the database by either entering characteristics of a sales agent into said database or clicking on a virtual sales agent provided by said database;

providing information to said virtual sales agent about a product or service a user wants to purchase.

8. A method of performing a sales transaction online comprising;
providing information to a user concerning the user's personal life;
providing information to said user concerning past business transactions;
providing information to a user comprising price quality or quantity information for products for sale.
9. The method of claim 8 wherein said information is provided via e-mail, a web site, palm pilot, cell phone, or other wireless means.